

Tone is the writer's attitude toward his or her subject. A reader can identify the tone of a story by paying attention to details, dialogue, and description and monitoring his or her response to these elements.

Use a web like the one below to identify a story's tone. In the center, state the tone. In the circles outside, list details that convey the tone.

Title:

Author:

